I sought you, Lord, and af - ter - ward I knew
You reached to me, and did my hand en - fold.
I search, I seek to love, and yet the whole

You'd moved my soul to seek you, seek - ing me.
I walked and nev - er sank in - to the sea.
Seems but a crude at - tempt to an - swer you!

It is not that I found you, Sav - ior true—
It was - not that I took a hold of you,
You were so long be - fore hand with my soul,

Rath - er that you found me.
But that your hand held me.
From the be - gin - ning true.
